Jaimie Roper, PhD

Assistant Professor, School of Kinesiology
Director, Locomotor and Movement Control Laboratory
Auburn University

"The Right Place But Not the Right Time: the Role of Timing in Gait in People with Essential Tremor"

Join us to hear Dr. Roper discuss gait changes in Essential Tremor, one of the most common movement disorders in older adults, and how we can improve measurement techniques impacting patient outcomes related to gait that can be used by both scientists and practitioners.
